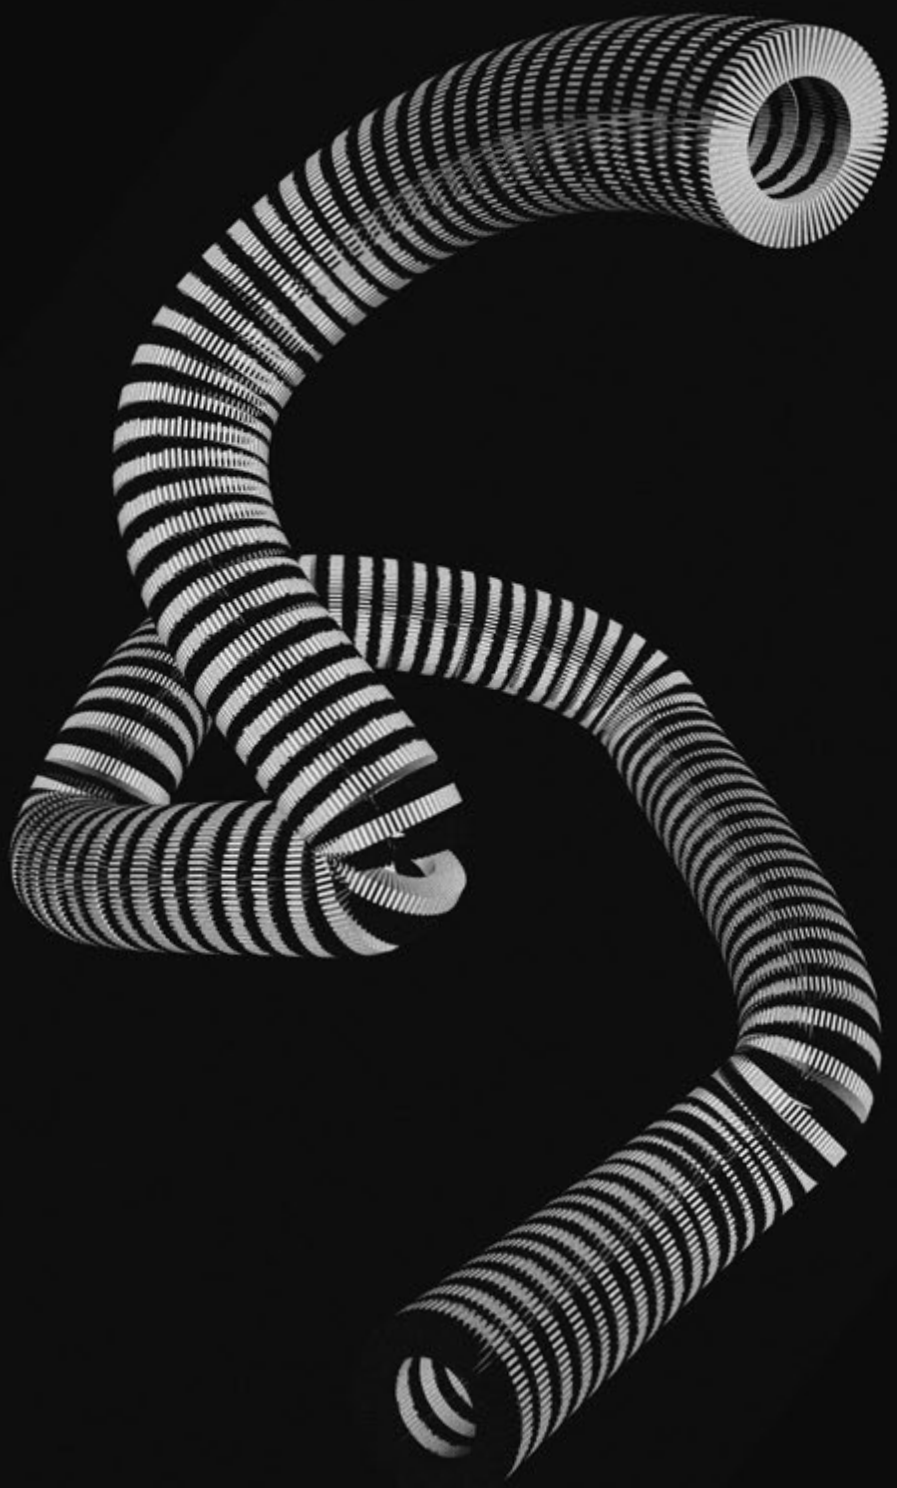
PORTALFEST
2019



festival information

"Tēnā koutou and welcome to PORTALFEST 2019 :: we are excited to bring you a fresh programme of international and local artists presenting new-music projects 'outside the concert hall' over two weekends 25-26 January & 1-2 February in central WLG.

PORTALFEST will be utilising multiple spaces in the city: we have two larger shows, Elliot Vaughan's absurd, mournful Fish in Pink Gelatine in the labyrinthine Adam Art Gallery, & Swiss ensemble Kollektiv International Totem's complex performance installation KIT FIT at Potocki Paterson Gallery.

We have our late-night Portal III, continuing our on-going project of PORTAL solo recitals, featuring stellar Melbourne-based cellist David Moran at Pyramid Club premiering brand-new works by NZ-composers Louisa Nicklin & me, alongside contemporary music pillars Xenakis & Saariaho.

We are excited to be joining with the Fiction Room project at Pegasus Books, featuring two of WLG's most inventive musicians, Gerard Crewdson & Antonia Barnett-McIntosh, who will navigate early evening performances in one of WLG's cosiest performance venues. To wrap-up, we would love to hang-out together for an After Party (venue TBA), please join us!

I encourage you to come along for the ride, I promise it will be greatly rewarding. Looking forward to seeing you around during the festival!"

Access

Access around the festival is intended to be primarily done by walking, and together with other festival goers. There will be a main group on each night to walk with between venues, and this will be fun opportunity to socialise between shows.

Lift access also is available at Potocki Paterson Gallery and Adam Art Gallery.

If access getting around the city to each venue may be a problem we would love to help you find a way to get around. If you are interested in car pooling options, or have car pooling service to offer, please get in touch so we can make that happen, and cover your parking costs.

Safety

Staying safe during the festival is of keen importance. We take a no-tolerance stance of abusive behaviour, and we are working to mitigate risk of accidents. If anything is a problem during the weekend please feel at ease to call Reuben (see contact details), or for serious emergency to call emergency services on 111.

TICKETS

All tickets come in waged adult and unwaged or concession (includes university students and over 65s) prices.

Festival passes ($60 / $40) are available to book online and save you $15 on the price of all shows 1x each, including FR suggested koha, but give you access to view shows 2x (N.B. for Fish in Pink Gelatine booking is essential as entry is limited). Contact fish@elliotvaughan.com to book this show with a festival pass.

Tickets to individual shows are also available from UndertheRadar or at the door 10-20 mins before each show in cash. N.B. that all online bookings contain a small surplus booking/card fee.

We want everyone who wants to be come to PORTALFEST to be able to! We also want people to have the opportunity to be generous. All ticket sales go towards paying our musicians and covering some basic running costs, but the larger the box-office, the more the performers are supported.

So, if money is a limiting factor, or, if you would like to donate to the festival, we would love to hear from you so we can find a solution. Please contact Reuben (see contact details at the bottom) if that applies.

FISH IN PINK GELATINE

Show I
Fri Jan 25
1930hrs – 21hrs

Show II
Sat Jan 26
1930hrs – 21hrs

Adam Art Gallery, Victoria University - Kelburn Campus
$20/15 | booking essential - book at fish@elliotvaughan.com with a festival pass

Inspired by fish and the ever-changing, three-dimensional environment they move through, FISH IN PINK GELATINE is an experimental music performance in two halves.

Making use of the unique architecture of Victoria University Wellington's Adam Art Gallery, the first half is a performed installation. The five musicians are spread around the space, performing intimate musical and artistic tasks. The audience is invited to move about the gallery, chatting and enjoying custom-made snacks, finding their own path through the environment. Expect origami fish, glass tanks, rubber bands.

The second half is a staged concert. Taking place on the lowest level, in the murky depths, a series of challenging and compelling instrumental solos, gestures and poems (the 'fish') emerge and disappear into the always present soundscapes (the 'waters').

Composed and directed by Elliot Vaughan, FISH IN PINK GELATINE is the result of a year spent exploring the extra-aural facets of performed music. It examines the objecthood of instruments and corporeality of instrumentalists, the three-dimensional space of the venue, light, the politics of creating and consuming art, and the alien strangeness of fish.

Marcus Jackson – clarinet
Leni Mackle – bassoon
Nick Snowball – light & percussion
Elliot Vaughan – viola
Olivia Wilding – cello

ELLIOT VAUGHAN is a composer, viola player and artistic collaborator based in Aotearoa. He thinks music is tactile, corporeal and political. He focusses on creating within collaborative, interdisciplinary projects. His output includes sound design for experimental dance and theatre; orchestral, chamber and electroacoustic concert music; pop songs; and performance inventions and interventions. elliotvaughan.com

#Performance#Postcolonism#Permaculture#Jellyfish

Our era, and this monodic economy, wants to simplify the living everywhere. You may have heard the term Anthropocene. It means that colonisation has arrived at its ultimate plan: the plants, animals, and bacteria have to be transformed into human beings. But we are not fans of desert and monody. Sorry.

Life is life only when it is polyphonic, and so our scores are made from complex polyphonic exercises where, for instance, we will train to be birds, eating mosquitos for protein, making musical interpretation of rainforest.

For KIT improvisation means resilience, that experimentation means permaculture and 'extended technique' means music, text, video, and movement. As part of KIT FIT we are running Open Lab, a platform to initiate commentary on artistic practice with WLG musicians. Together with these musicians we will use experimentation and inquiry, to uncover personal narratives and insecurities people bring to the environment of how we work, which will become our performative piece for Portalfest.

Kay Zhang – saxophone, voice & objects
Léo Collin – piano, percussion & objects
Nuria Khasenova – piano, flute & objects

KOLLEKTIV INTERNATIONAL TOTEM (KIT) is composed of people from different cultures and backgrounds, looking at the same music theatre direction, based in Zurich. For those who consider all the other living beings as part of the same family, regardless of their blood, if they are a fish or a mammal, or speaking the same language, the totem is the main symbol of this collective.

They create music theatre pieces together between fiction and documentary platforms to create a performative experience.

PORTAL III

Fri Feb 01
21hrs –

Pyramid Club, 272 Taranaki Street
$20/15

PORTAL III continues the solo recital PORTALS project. Two works by NZ composers Louisa Nicklin and Reuben Jelleyman have been commissioned for this trans-Tasman collaboration with cellist David Moran. David will be presenting works by Xenakis and Saariaho along with the two new projects.

This project has been supported by funds from Creative New Zealand.

DAVID MORAN is a Melbourne based cellist, currently studying at the Australian National Academy of Music. He completed a Bachelor of Music with First Class Honours at the Elder Conservatorium of Music, Adelaide, in 2015. David is currently developing a performance practice that encompasses the entire history and sonic possibilities of the cello, including collaborations with composers and improvisation. He has been principal cellist of the Australian Youth Orchestra, a participant in Ensemble Offspring's young artist residency program, curates an early music concert series in the Adelaide hills with Continuo Continuum and has toured regularly with Momentum Ensemble.

Composer LOUISA NICKLIN explores the roles of psychological phenomena, patterns and processes in music.
A graduate of Te Koki NZSM,Louisa has had works performed and recorded by the likes of NZSO, and Shanghai Philharmonic Orchestra.
Now based in Auckland, Louisa is an accomplished musician who works across contemporary classical composition and popular music.

REUBEN JELLEYMAN is a composer based in Wellington, whose music stretches from orchestral to multimedia installation work.
He studied at Te Koki NZSM and Victoria University of Wellington in Music and Physics, and has had music performed by Avanti! (Finland), Stroma, Ensemble Fractales (Belgium), the NZSO, and NZTrio.
In 2015 Jelleyman was nominated for the SOUNZ Contemporary Award for his work Expanse.

THE FICTION ROOM

Gerard Crewdson :: Episode 24 | Pure Fiction

Sat Jan 26
18hrs –

Antonia Barnett-McIntosh :: Episode 25 | travelling, travelling

Sat Feb 02
18hrs –

Pegasus Books, Left-Bank, Cuba Street

Koha suggested entry $10/5

THE FICTION ROOM is a weekly, genre-less, gig series hosted at Pegasus Books. For each Saturday of the festival we've curated the evening's programme to start here.

On Jan 26 Gerard Crewdson presents: PURE FICTION,'a performance piece combining hand drawn moving images, spoken narrative and acoustic sound accompaniment, specially created for the wondrously book-encrusted Fiction Room at Pegasus. This is the latest instalment of a long running project "Cinema of the Poor" which presents original and richly imaginative stories using the simplest of means. For this performance Gerard will be joined by Erika Grant on cello, flute and diverse sound devices.

Gerard Crewdson: visual artist/musician, low brass specialist, member of 1980's pioneering Wellington Braille Collective, graduate in Visual Arts/Printmaking from Sydney University, over 30 years of performances and collaborations in Australia and New Zealand (as well as Europe/ US) with new and improvised music groups/large and small ensembles playing spectrum from composed/semi composed to completely spontaneous music.
Erika Grant: Chapman Tripp Award winning theatre composer, member of multiple bands including Cookie Brooklyn and The Crumbs, plays bass carillon with the acclaimed Orchestra of the Spheres touring USA/Iceland and Europe.

And on Feb 02 Antonia Barnett-McIntosh presents: TRAVELLING, TRAVELLING, an hour-long set of new experimental material tailored for the bookstore. Antonia's inventive text scores alternate between dialogue and instruction, creating fascinating and beautiful deconstructions of everyday speech and human behaviour.

Antonia Barnett-McIntosh studied composition in Wellington and has now returned home, after 12 years working extensively overseas in all kinds of settings, as 2018-19 Creative New Zealand/Jack C. Richards Composer-in-Residence at Te Koki New Zealand School of Music. She is a composer, performer, sound artist and sometime curator with an interest in working across disciplines, and has collaborated with musicians, theatre and filmmakers, dancers, visual artists and poets.
